CHEERFUL WORDS

For Many a Norway Householder

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove helpful to hundreds of Norway readers.

Mrs. F. L. Starbird, Norway, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been an old standby with me for years. At times my kidneys don't act as they should and my back aches. I often have blinding dizzy spells and rheumatic pains when my finger joints swell and are painful. I always use Doan's Kidney Pills from Noyes Drug Store at these times and they quickly cure me of the attack. I can't say enough in praise of Doan's."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Starbird had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

BRIDGTON ACADEMY REUNION

The annual reunion of the pupils of former principal C. C. Spratt held on Saturday, September 1st, was a delightful occasion. The guests began to arrive in the forenoon and a picnic dinner was served, beans, coffee and ice cream being furnished.

The afternoon was passed in greeting newcomers and visiting the various buildings. The new boys' dormitory was particularly interesting. Older students will recall this as the Seth Moore homestead, which has now been remodeled to accommodate forty boys which solves the existing problem of room for the boys since available rooms in the village are now few in number. An addition to the Club kitchen in Ingalls Hall was also noted, together with many minor improvements in the other buildings. Visits to the familiar rooms brought back many memories and incidents of school days were recalled with zest.

At seven o'clock, the banquet was held in Ingalls Hall, after which Ernest N. Stevens '99 opened the exercises of the evening by telling some of his good stories and then introducing Mr. Spratt as toastmaster. Mr. Spratt presided in his usual happy manner, "called the roll" and called on the various speakers. The responses were unusually interesting.

Dr. C. B. Sylvester of the Board of Trustees told of the establishment of the water system and the boys' dormitory and other problems which the trustees were called upon to solve. Other speakers were Herman E. Miles '99; former principal I. F. MacCormick; Mrs. Frances Libby Spooner; Arthur G. Spear, president of the Portland alumni; F. Wilmut Walker '99; Anne Weston Twitchell; Mae E. Gould '01 and Lawrence G. Wright '03. A cornet solo with encore by Ethel Whitney '02 was a pleasing feature. She was accompanied by Grace Skillings Walker '97.

Many matters of interest to the Academy were touched upon by the speakers and plans for next year's reunion were discussed. It was voted to hold the meeting on the second Saturday before Labor Day with basket lunch instead of the usual banquet.

Group pictures of classes, athletic teams and societies attracted much attention. Interim slides of some of these will be shown next year together with village and Academy scenes.

Mr. Spratt is now principal of the Woonsocket, R. I. High School, but retains his summer home in North Bridgton. He is keenly interested in the welfare of the Academy and its students.

Both he and Mrs. Spratt experience keen satisfaction in these annual gatherings and every one of their pupils should make an effort to be present in 1924.

"Our Store" The HOOVER

It BEATS as it sweeps as it Cleans

THE HOOVER CLEANS YOUR RUGS IN THE WAY THEY SHOULD BE CLEANED

Every time you beat your rugs and sweep them, you prove to yourself how costly and inadequate is the method you use.

Costly, because you consume much time and effort in doing what The Hoover does with ease and speed and because the harshness and inefficiency of old-fashioned methods take years from the life of your rugs.

Inadequate, because it is impossible with broom and carpet sweeper to dislodge and remove the embedded, nap-cutting grit that shortens rug life and makes new rugs necessary years too soon.

EAST SUMMER

Serious Accident

A serious accident occurred at the corn shop, Tuesday of last week, when the belt to the fly wheel of the engine broke, leaving the machinery to "run wild." The wheel revolved with such fearful velocity that it was reduced to atoms, leaving only the hub on the axle. Only a short time before the accident occurred, the room was nearly full of men and women employees, but the most of them had finished their day's work and left the building. Otherwise some of them must have been hit by the flying iron fragments. Surely the operatives must feel that a wise Providence prevented what might have been a fearful catastrophe in this quiet little hamlet.

Some of the young people were invited to Paul Bonney's, Friday evening, to a corn roast. After roasting marshmallows and roasting corn, the company, 22 in number, sat around the dying embers playing games and telling stories. They all agreed that Paul was a most excellent host.

Why Rubber is the Best
Battery Insulation

For manufacturing reasons, wood instead of rubber has been used in the extremely important job of insulating battery plates from each other. As long as it was the only practical thing, it had to serve, although it did not last as long as the plates. Ordinary wood-insulated batteries have to be re-insulated at least once during the battery's life. Battery builders knew long ago that rubber would be ideal for battery insulation if—and that was what ruled it out—if a way could only be found to use it. It remained for Willard to discover the way—Threaded Rubber Insulation.

What is the Life of an Exide Battery?

Many car owners have obtained five or more years of service from their Exide Batteries. Others permit their batteries to be ruined in a few months through neglect and preventable abuse. The things which do the greatest damage are lack of water, lack of charge and properly secured. So we say frankly to Exide owners that the life of their batteries is largely in their hands. Keep your battery well charged, filled with water, clean and properly secured in its place and it will give a long life and unfailing service.

WHERE DOES THE KU KLUX KLAN STAND?

According to the friends of this order it stands for Americanism. America for Americans and surely no true American can say that the cause is not a worthy one. Yet the interpretation of Americanism as voted by some members of this order seems to fall far short of the Americanism that Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and many other famous Americans have stood for. What constitutes a true American? What is Americanism? Would Abraham Lincoln say that this country was for Protestants only, that Catholics, Jews and colored people were not Americans and should not be allowed to have any part or share in the government of this country? Surely we should remember the graves in France and remember that not only protestant boys, but Catholic boys, colored boys and Jewish boys died as Americans fighting for their country, and who shall say that the latter deserved any less of their country or were any less loyal Americans because of their religion or race? There are splendid men and women in all religious denominations and among all races.

What we need more than anything else in this country is more love and less hate, a breaking down of the barriers between religions rather than building them up. In a certain New England city the Catholics hold their services in the Masonic hall. In another city, the Knights of Columbus hall is used for protestant gatherings. A Catholic church burned and the Christian Science Church at once offered them the use of their house of worship and countless other instances could be quoted of friendship, love and trust between members of differing religions, races and creeds.

Jesus said, "Love one another and do unto others as ye would be done by." Is the Ku Klux Klan living up to this principle? Is it striving to bring more harmony and unity among the people of this great nation? If so, then it is indeed founded on the rock and will continue to go on with a work of usefulness. But if it is not founded on this principle of love and equality, then it may prosper for a while, but sooner or later it will fall for this very reason. The writer does not wish to be unfair to the Ku Klux Klan, but cannot help feeling that many of their speakers have made very unwise speeches which result in stirring up hatred, but accomplishes very little towards making this a better nation.

—Ralph M. Bacon.

Keep your system in fighting trim!

YOUR liver, kidneys, and other organs are engaged in a constant battle against infection and body poisons. When they are sluggish these poisons "back up" and collect in the blood. Headaches, backaches, constipation, dizziness, biliousness, foul breath, and coated tongue are the danger signs. Don't neglect them. Drive out the poisons. Help the fighting organs—the kidneys, liver, bowels and pores of the skin. Keep them healthy and active with

More Grip on the Road!

Buick Four-wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes give all 1924 Buick cars twice the amount of grip on the road, thereby doubling their braking efficiency. It is the friction or grip of the tire on the road surface that brakes or slows down the car.

Buick four-wheel brakes not only provide a greater power to stop in case of emergency, but, because of this four-wheel road grip, reduce skidding dangers to a minimum.

In turning, Buick four-wheel brake construction automatically releases whichever is the outside or guiding front wheel so it is instantly responsive to the steering mechanism.

Buick four-wheel brake construction distributes braking friction over four drums and four wheels. This reduces wear on brake linings and tires, thereby assuring their longer life and greater efficiency, with fewer adjustments.

Buick four-wheel brakes [on all models] together with countless other distinctive features of the 1924 cars further establish Buick as the Standard of Comparison.

Under the Microscope

Before you buy a security find out about it—put it under the microscope. Ask all the questions you can about it and make them searching. For instance, ask this one:

"Does the company which issues the security, if it is a hydro-electric company, own enough undeveloped power to look out for the future needs of the territory?"

The answer as it applies to our Company and its 7 per cent. Preferred Stock follows:

"It owns at least 150,000 horsepower of undeveloped power."

"Under the Microscope," an interesting new booklet, pictured below, has just been issued. It gives you some questions which will be useful to ask salesmen who offer you securities which they claim are "as good as Central Maine Power Company 7% Preferred Stock." Please tear off the coupon and send for the book.

SAFETY FIRST

As you speed along thru life With its competition fierce, Just keep within the limits of the law; For 'twill solve the problem of the race, Bless you, home with happy wife, Refrain.

If you keep within the limits of the law, O, it's hurry up and bustle, And it's fifty miles or bustle, Get your fender hurry scurry, cooked or raw, Have self starter if you'd rather, But keep within the limits of the law.

There is many a good gal, Fit to mate with any gal, Who breaks the rules of speed with mighty gall, Weeds a vamp who has bobbed hair, Goes around cross as a bear, Without the safety limits of the law.

You may have a pretty cot On a sunny slope or spot, With garden fruits a plenty for your maw, Round your latched window spread Clumps of roses, white and red, If you keep within the limits of the law, O, the constitution's right, And Old Glory's our delight, Good schools and churches government and all, We will rear fair boys and girls, Be cheer givers and not churls, As we keep within the limits of the law.

—HOWARD W. COLLINS.

THE FARMER AND WORK

The State of Maine has declined to pass a 48 Hour Law several times in the Legislature, or even submit it to voters in referendum. It so declined in the Legislature that met last winter at Augusta. The present 54-hour-law, similar to that in Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, and in many other industrial states, has been in operation in Maine only eight years. It was thought that it was too soon to make another violent change of this sort.

The referendum on the law for 48 hours was forced by the "Initiative" so called, that compels the Governor to call an election when 12,000 people sign a petition to that effect. This petition, circulated under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, has brought about this referendum. New Hampshire and Rhode Island declined last winter to enact 48 hour laws. The chief reasons were that it would jeopardize the chief industries of those states that are already being curtailed by competition of the South.

Only one northern state has a 48 hour law (Massachusetts). Five Boston Textile Mills closed their business in Massachusetts August 23, 1923, and gave up the ghost.

The Farm surely depends on industries for its values. If industry languishes or dies, all real estate values, farms included, also languish and die. If wages are cut or lessened in gross-output, then the market is damaged.

It has been openly announced by the American Federation of Labor that it will not be satisfied with a 48 hour week. Its goal, at present, is 44 hours a week.

About 100,000 people are employed in Maine industries—one seventh of the population. If there are 150,000 families in Maine and two representatives of each family in the industries are concerned in this change.

The manufacturers say that if productive hours are cut six hours a week of 11 per cent, then wages must be cut; for under competition such as it is, machines are speeded to their limit, and the latest automatic machinery is being used. Nothing else can be done.

The referendum comes October 21st. The ballot will read so that a "NO" vote will be against enactment of such a law.

A BOX CAR

By Fred M. Davis

"Dangling your legs while sitting in the open door of a box car on board a moving freight train on a bright, moonlight night is a thrill most interesting," I said the other night, as my youngsters gathered near and asked me to tell a bit of my life in the past.

"And you was an orphan without parents, brothers or sisters, was you, Dad?"

"Yes, my children, you have guessed right."

"But tell us, Dad, how did you happen to start life in this strange manner?"

"Well, with Mother dead and no one left but a boy companion, I got into the rut and naturally enough established this odd way of gaining a livelihood."

"And you liked it, did you not?"

"Yes, I can't say that I didn't travel and constant change of scenery, though you are ever so young, is always interesting."

"My mother, your grandmother, having died when I was young, I was left alone, but went to live with an aunt and uncle who were kind to me. My uncle being a steward and together with my aunt, I was taken aboard a coastwise vessel that shipped out of Bangor, doing a coastwise business from Bangor to the Gulf. Bangor was in those days noted as a lumber center and perhaps leads today as one of the foremost lumbering cities of Maine. Most sailing vessels then were made of wood and I will remember one of the most trying things a sea captain has to contend with is a calm sea."

"I used to like to watch the crew catch large fish over the side and watch my uncle frying flapjacks. I had to laugh as I watched him turn them in the air without the use of a case knife. Sailors as a nation are a rough set and my uncle was a double fisted old salt; as they are called, and ready to fight at the least provocation. But as for myself, I was used well by all hands and had the freedom of the ship from the main truck to the hold."

"I will remember one instance when my aunt, going on deck for a cod to fry for dinner during a heavy storm was upbraided by the captain, who said, 'Never come on deck in times like these.'"

"My aunt has long since been dead and sleeps beside my mother at North Raymond, Maine. She was at one time a resident of Norway, having lived here at the time of the Norway fire, in 1894."

"Pleasant memories are mine to me yet of my uncle, who carried me bodily under his arm while he fished the Androscoggin. He sleeps now in the town of Woodstock, where he died less than two years ago."

"After stepping out into the world to ship for myself, as young as I was, the lure and thrill of travel captivated me and I was forced to take up with, and make a saw-mill, job wagon, or a box car a place of habitation."

"With my parents dead and perhaps a kick or a knock from most people, I fell in with a boy companion, a native of Mechanic Falls, known as George McClellan, and so with both parents and courtship gone, I was doomed to ride the bumpers until my return to visit the mound that held all that was so near and dear to me."

"I started then to learn a profession that I have carried on since eighteen years of age. McClellan kept it up until he lost a leg the last time I saw him was at Lewiston, where he walked with a crutch and a sign hung under his chin that read, 'Help Me What You Can.' I dream them over, those days when a box car was to me, a comfort and a solace."

Ten Don'ts for the Milk Consumer.
Don't take your milk setting on the porch until noon and blame it on the milk.

Don't buy milk expecting to get a staple article.

Don't put out a bottle if not clean, for in some states a fine is attached to the act.

Don't put money in a wet bottle and set it out.

Don't imagine your milk will keep setting on the floor beside the ice box. Don't forget to put your bottles out in time for the milkman. To do so would be like going to the grocery store for molasses without a jug. To lose one dozen bottles each week means a loss of $1.25 to the milkman.

Don't crack or chip a bottle and set it out expecting to get good one in its place.

Don't uncap a bottle of milk and set it in the refrigerator containing fried fish, fresh meat, sour pickles and a dozen other vegetables, any one of which would sour your milk. There are customers who for years have never made a complaint and who have never failed to have their bottles out. One man, in particular, has never failed to have twenty cents in one of his bottles to pay for his two quarts of milk.

Don't expect more of the milkman than of your grocer or any other business man.

Don't let trifling animosities prevent you from buying your milk from the man who sells the best milk and cream. Remember the milkman works as hard as to please a table with many strange packages was set before them, much to their surprise. Norvel's old neighbors then presented them with a bale of "hay" diminutive in size, saying that about all the crop they had raised this year was grass, but they wanted to show their good crops, so brought the best they had. Upon opening it, they found a beautiful all pure linen table cloth of fancy design "for thoughts" and 8 tablespoons, a butter knife and sugar salt of Community silver.

Mrs. Farnum gave the knives and forks and Thelma's parents, a tea set. There were many beautiful pieces of our glass and china, coffee percolator, other silver pieces, linens, towels and other useful articles, some with pertinent rhymes attached, a baby doll and two candy suckers. These provoked much merriment.

Dancing to Dunham's music and card games followed, with refreshments of ice cream and cake. A variety of other things were more than fifty gathered from all parts of the town, despite the fact it had been fair week and corn picking was to be rushed.

At a late hour the bride and groom left, amidst best wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

THE RIGHT SCHOOL TEACHER
By Margaret Conn Rhoads in The Farm Journal, for August.

Rural school boards and farm parents are just beginning to realize the need of employing rural-minded school teachers to teach the children who attend the consolidated schools. By "rural minded" teachers we mean men and women who have farm interests most at heart; men and women who have been reared on farms and who see a future for pupils who stay on the farm.

It is hard for the town city-trained man or woman to sense the romance of farm life; to understand the opportunities it offers for a successful and useful career or to visualize a future in such quiet surroundings. Too often these city-trained teachers (all unconsciously, perhaps) hold up to their pupils' eyes the glowing opportunities of the city. They are entirely lacking in rural mindedness, because it is not a part of their being.

A recent survey of the consolidated schools in Iowa showed that 80 per cent of the pupils were looking toward life in the city, but in a locality employing a teacher selected from a rural district and who was "rural" at heart, there were 85 per cent of her pupils anxious to stay on farms.

In all the daily-teaching in the farm districts there should be a note of loyalty to life on the farm. Lessons along reference to use in a rural life. No city-bred man or woman can really assume the farm attitude, no matter how desirous he or she may be of instructing the pupils in the prescribed lessons of the school. Therefore, all boards selecting teachers for rural schools should endeavor to select teachers having a love for farm life; who have themselves been reared on farms and who can instill into the minds of a larger percentage of their pupils a real desire to continue rural life.

Such teachers can be great factors in keeping boys and girls contented in the rural districts and can direct their education toward the lines of success. When these children are taught the value to the community of the farmer-business man; of the rural community center; of crops scientifically raised; and of the challenge it offers to a young man or woman to take the ground and make of it a productive place that feeds and clothes its people and promotes the welfare of the life that is open to them and to choose the farm as their abiding place.

The child who lives on a farm until he is through high school, has much of his real farm knowledge learned. From the time he is old enough to throw corn to the chickens, to the time he takes charge of the "north forty," he has learned much of the habits of animals, of the growing of crops, of the value of land

The Price of This Car Is Misleading

Some buyers take it for granted that cars which sell at about the same prices are equal in value. This is distinctly not the case. To buy on this basis would be an injustice to yourself.

You can pay several hundred dollars more than the Light-Six price and get a car that represents no greater, if as great, intrinsic value as the Studebaker Light-Six.

Or you can pay about the same price as the Light-Six, or less, and get a car that is high-priced when compared with the Light-Six because it does not represent as much for the money invested.

And in the Light-Six you enjoy all the advantages of smooth, flexible, dependable, six-cylinder performance.

You get a beautiful, substantial, well-built, roomy and comfortable car.

The practical absence of vibration in the Light-Six is a notable achievement. It is due largely to the fact that the Light-Six crankshaft and connecting rods are machined on all surfaces. This is an exclusive Studebaker practice on cars within hundreds of dollars of the Light-Six price.

Stop in and see the 1924 Model Light-Six.

Test it for yourself—drive it and make your comparisons. Driving is believing.

After seventy-one years of service the name Studebaker enjoys confidence and respect more than ever.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

While Frank Purington and family were returning from the Oxford County Fair, Sept. 12, his car skidded and ran into a pole, killing his 3 year old son, Joseph, and injuring his 5 year old daughter, Mary.

ROADS IN HARRISON BAD

Many of the Harrison roads have been decidedly bad this summer. A summer visitor in Harrison during the past season has this to say regarding "Harrison Roads," reflecting on the recent fatal accident: "The roads in Harrison have been dangerous all summer. The road where the accident of the Purington children occurred had just been 'repaired,' the crew and tools taken away and the road considered finished. It was left so narrow that it was unsafe to get out of the wheel ruts, with soft sand on either side and a drop of two feet into the gutter. Purington drove an old Ford and they claim his brakes did not hold and they probably were defective, but if the road had been properly repaired and made wider, his car would have gotten over it all right. The road has been dangerous all summer. With a tax rate of $52 a thousand there isn't a piece of road in the town of Harrison that I rode over this summer that is properly built."

"Perhaps it was necessary to sacrifice the life of a little child to rouse the people of Harrison to a realization of how far behind other towns their roads are, and how their excessive tax rate is being paid out with nothing to show for it. It is quite time something was done."

TAXATION AND HIGH COST OF LIVING

The tax rate in Massachusetts cities and towns this year show a reduction over that of 1922. The cost of city government in seventeen of the cities of the state, not including Boston, shows a great increase over that of 1914. The average per capita cost that year was $29. In 1917 it was $31. In 1922 it was $49. The highest was Holyoke with $63.40 per capita of its population. The next highest was New Bedford with $62.49. The lowest was Somerville with $33.33. In 1914 it was but $22.58.—News Item.

The New England States at the beginning of this week (Sept. 17) had raised over half a million of dollars for the relief of the Japanese earthquake sufferers. New York had received over two millions. Other parts of the country had raised over one million more. The latest estimate is that eight millions will meet all losses and repair all damages. America's contribution will go very far towards cementing permanent peace between Japan and the United States.—Commonwealth.

The sentiment in the rural districts against the proposed 48 hour week law appears to be pretty unanimous. The farmers cannot carry on their farms profitably under it. Hay cannot be made when the dew is on the grass, nor crops harvested in dull weather. If this law comes into force, the unions will next agitate for a 42 hour week law with Saturday afternoons off. The unions do not care for the welfare of any class but their own. They have no regard for the property and lives of men who want to earn an honest living, support their families and educate their children, unless they belong to the union. They butchered nearly two dozen law abiding citizens at Herrin, Ill., during the coal strike there and there has scarcely been a strike of any magnitude without some loss of property or precious lives. If we are living in a free country where all are equal before the law, every honest citizen is entitled to the protection of his life and property. This menace of the unions has gone far enough. It's time now to call a halt and find out where we are at. Free men without masters; free labor without interference, and a free shot without dictation from outside trouble makers.

There is no law to compel men to work and if one or more choose to quit, let him and then stay quit, and keep away from the former place of employment. The "picketing" business interfering with persons willing to work to obtain an honest living and intimidation of laborers, should cease for good. It's wrong and unjust and will eventually be stopped. Turn out on the 15th of October and roll up such a majority against the proposed 48 hour week law—that the unions will take notice that the menace hanging over the country in such abominable conditions as the coal situation must soon come to an end.—Uncle Lem.

Rev. A. S. Cole Begins Pastorate
Rev. Alfred S. Cole, formerly of Buckfield, for the past three years pastor of All Saints' Universalist Church in Woodford, a suburb of Portland, who last June was called to the pastorate of the Third Universalist Church, West Somerville, Mass., assumed charge of the church at the morning service, Sept. 16. The subject of his initial sermon as pastor was "Icebergs in Our National Sea." He was greeted by a large congregation.

Mr. Cole succeeds Rev. Isaac Smith, who resigned in June to accept the pastorate of Grace Universalist Church in Lowell. Rev. Mr. Cole and Rev. Mr. Smith are personal friends.
Alfred S. Cole was born in Buckfield, October 9, 1893, graduated from the high school in that town in 1911, after which he was employed for three years as a clerk in the local postoffice. He then entered Tufts College and at the end of five years graduated from the Crane Theological School in 1919. He spent another year at Tufts in graduate work in the theological school. In the fall of 1920 he assumed the pastorate of All Saints' Universalist Church in Woodford, Me., where he remained until he received the call to West Somerville.

There will be a rally supper on the evening of Wednesday, Sept. 26, and in the evening a reception will be tendered the new pastor. He will make his home at Paige Hall, Tufts College.

DAIRY COWS NEED SOME GRAIN WITH PASTURE

When dairy cows begin to decrease in milk and flesh as pasture fails, it is a good practice to feed grain. The amount which may be fed with profit will depend upon the condition and production of the cows.
If the cows are producing heavily and are in thin flesh as the pastures dry up it is advisable to feed the regular winter ration of grain and high protein concentrates.

Tests at some of the experiment stations show that where pastures are of good quality and abundant the immediate return from feeding grain does not always show a profit, but it causes increased production later, especially while on pasture.

WHAT DID SHE SAY?

"You are no gentleman," she said, "if you think I said such a thing as 'Dear girl,' he answered, 'you must not think I think you think you must be the kind of a girl I think you must be if you said she said I said you said you had said.'"

It seems he knew she knew he knew she said just what she said she heard he had heard her friend had heard him say he had heard her say, but wit intuitive feminine tact, she accepted the apology.—N. Y. Globe.

PUTTING HIS FOOT ON IT

Johnny, having reached his teens, was invited out to dinner without his parents. An anxious mother told him to be careful about his manners and to speak in complimentary terms of the food served him. After he had tasted the soup he remarked: "This is pretty good soup, what there is of it."

He was greatly disconcerted to observe a frown on the face of his hostess, and he hastened to repair his blunder by remarking: "And there's plenty of it—such as it is."—St. Paul Dispatch.

STORY OF BY-GONE DAYS

Twenty-Six Years Ago

John P. Cullinan has bought F. P. Holmes' coal business and added it to his extensive wood trade.
Horace Oxnard and Ed. Cummings are building a kite 6x6 ft. with a camera attached for aerial photography. A small model, worked successfully, so big results are expected from this monster.
Walter Sanborn and Alfred L. Lafarier entered Bowdoin College, Monday. They were graduated from Norway High last June.

County fair guests at the Beals numbered 67; at the Elms, 47. Andrews House, South Paris, 46; Grand Trunk Hotel, South Paris, 47.

County Commissioners have widened the street below Norway bridge, allowing Stephen Cummings $50 damages.
H. Price Webster, Co. played here last week on County fair dates, "White Slave," "The Stranger," and "Dora," were produced.

55th annual Oxford County Agricultural Society fair this week. John A. Roberts of Norway was president and re-elected at the annual meeting. Prof. Joseph LaRue gave a balloon ascension each day. Among the fast horses were H. P. E., Janet, Alcantara Chief, Lenette, Barbara, Genette, Queen Wilkes, Harrison Boy and Norland.

B. G. McIntire, vice president of the Federal Land Bank, has recently returned from a trip into Aroostook County. With him were several of the directors of the New England division of the bank. They were much pleased with conditions and a big crop of potatoes is assured. The Federal Bank has made a larger percent. of loans in this county than in any other in the eight states comprising the eastern division of the land bank.

Miss Nellie Warren, who has been stopping with her cousin, Mrs. Alice E. Brooks, has gone to Portland, where she is employed as dressmaker.

The first meeting of the Barton Reading Club will be held on October 4th at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Fred Drake. The programs will be ready at that time.

James Porter of Dover, N. H., who has been visiting relatives in South Paris and Oxford a few days, returned to Dover, N. H., Sunday.

Doris S. McAllister, daughter of A. J. McAllister of 14 Alpine street, has succeeded in raising sweet potatoes. Some time last November she planted sprouts in a box and tended them carefully during the winter. The plants thrived after transplanting in the garden, and spread with vines not unlike cucumbers, and foliage resembling bean leaves. There were no blossoms. Some fifteen sprouts were harvested a few days ago and appear to be in condition for table use.

Miss McAllister considers this kind of crop not profitable for Maine, it requires too much "petting."

The Forty-Eight Hour Law

Every person should vote one way or the other on October 15 on the proposal to limit the hours of work of women and minors in the industries of Maine to 48 hours a week instead of 54 hours a week as at present.

If this law pass, men may work as at present, but it will be a crime for women to work over 8 hours in any one day or over 48 hours in any one week.

The result will be to limit the operation of all industries where women are employed in continuous operation to 48 hours a week. The proponents admit this; they desire to limit the operation of cotton-mills; shoe shops and other industries to the 48 hour week.

A reduction of six hours a week means a reduction of 11 per cent in the production of all industries that are dependent on women's work to maintain a present output. If it affected 60,000 people, it would mean the wiping out of the product of over 6,500 people in Maine. Proponents of the measure say that as now done in 54 hours. Statistics are prepared on this point. They do not indicate that this is the fact. But statistics may be worked in many ways. It is for the average person to use his own judgment on this point.

Opponents of the bill assert that it will damage Maine. They say that it is not fair to attempt to force it on Maine by the initiative. It has been twice or three times refused passage by the legislature. The Legislature has said that it is willing to pass this law when the South and the West pass it; that Maine is at great disadvantage now in long hauls and heavy freights and has a hard time to keep her industries. Only one industrial state making our goods has such a law and that is Massachusetts. Massachusetts is having a hard time to hold her industries. Her supremacy in cotton manufacturing has passed to the South which is rapidly taking a great lead, with legal working condition and 60 hour of the south no restrictions whatever. They say that Maine should not be made the goat through the initiative. New Hampshire and Rhode Island have declined to pass such a bill.

The friends of the bill say that it is a measure of reform and in the interest of health and morals of women. The opponents of the bill say that the condition in our industries is good; they are thoroughly inspected; there are practically no minors employed; that the labor is not damaging the health or the morals of women. No woman can now work over 54 hours in any one week.

The opponents do not oppose the principle of the 48 hour week; they say that Maine should not be forced to go to 48 hours when no effort is being made by proponents of the measure to put over such a law in states where the legal hours of work are sixty or are unlimited.

World Came to an End in 1914
V. C. Rice, representative of the I. B. of Brooklyn, N. Y., spoke for over an hour to a very attentive audience at Grange Hall, Norway, on the evening of Aug. 29. His subject was "All Nations Marching to Armageddon but—Millions now living will never die." The speaker read Rev. 16: 13 which, as he said, describes in symbolic language conditions in the world today. Armageddon in Hebrew means "Mount of Destruction."

Mr. Rice read brief extracts from prominent statesmen in Europe and our own country to substantiate his statement that all nations are hastening to destruction. "A new chapter opens in the history of Europe and the world, with a climax of horror such as mankind has never witnessed,"—Lloyd George. "Airplanes, poison gas, and hatred mixed together are spelling the doom of civilization,"—Frederick J. Libby.

Then taking up the Bible he read from Matt. 24 the words of our Lord relating to the end of the world. (age.) Jesus said "Except those days should be shortened, there should be no flesh be saved; but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened." With this agree the words of the prophet Jer. 13: 8, 9. "Seek righteousness, seek meekness: it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the Lord's anger." Zep. 2: 3 He explained Bible chronology, showed that three worlds are mentioned. The first ended with the flood, the second in 1914.

It was shown that the wonderful in visions of recent years are described in the Bible. At the League of Nations and Washington Conference are foretold in the International Bible Students are pointing the people to 1925, a date indicated in the Scriptures when our King, even now present, shall speak peace to the nations and they shall learn war no more. "The desire of all nations shall come." Hag. 2: 7.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous headache, no strength in my body and pains
in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work.
Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."
—Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BATES—WEST PARIS

Farnum Farm Burned

At about 10:30 A. M., Friday, Sept. 7 the ominous sound of a fire whistle was heard and soon all available autos loaded with fire fighters were racing up High St., to the home of Frank S. Farnum, about half a mile away, which was all ablaze.

Mrs. Farnum was down to the station to bring two ladies boarders who had just gone home on the train and Mr. Farnum was over near North Paris at work on the road and no one was at home except a small boy boarder and Mrs. Watson who is an invalid. It is said that sparks from a burning chimney flew in through an open window onto the hay in the barn was the cause of the fire.

In a very short time the whole was flat. The house was an unusually large one, having been built for two or more families. Since the death of the late Jesse Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Farnum had fitted it up for summer boarders, the greater part of the furniture on the lower floor was saved, but much clothing and furnishings were lost. Hiram Verrill lived in a few rooms in one part and Mrs. Verrill and baby were down to South Paris. Much of their clothing and furnishings were lost, with no insurance, the amount of insurance is said to be very small in comparison to the loss.

The farm stock was all out to pasture. Only a few hens were lost. The dog and cat were so badly burned that they had to be killed. Mr. and Mrs. Farnum moved their goods that were saved down to the village into a few rooms up stairs in Mrs. Gertrude Aldrich's house. Mrs. Watson was taken into Mrs. E. D. Curtis's home and the little boy boarder to Herbert Hill's for a few days until he went to his home in Portland. Since the fire, Mr. Farnum has been confined to the house with a bad leg. It is feared that he may have to go to the hospital for an operation. Much sympathy is expressed for them.
